

O'Neill Consulting Recruits Vice President, Manufacturing + Facility Operations for Revlon to Oversee its Largest Production Campus Globally

Consumer goods expert amplifies the beauty giant's operational leadership capabilities

NEW YORK (May 14, 2019) – O'Neill Consulting, the executive search firm making high impact hires, has recruited Maurice York as vice president of manufacturing and facility operations for Revlon, Inc. (NYSE: REV), the leading American multinational cosmetic, skin care, fragrance, and personal care company.

Maurice York joins with over 20 years of experience leading world-class, Fortune 500 consumer manufacturing organizations and driving operational excellence. He reports directly to Senior Vice President of North America Manufacturing Matt Savage.

"Maurice is the right leader for the job," said Savage. "O'Neill Consulting always delivers, providing me with higher-quality candidates than I get from other firms. They understand what I want, then go out and find it."

As Revlon looks to disrupt the evolving beauty industry with an aggressive transformation and innovation plan, CEO Debra Perelman is "committed to driving the company to compete and thrive in today's dynamic environment" and helping assemble a world-class leadership team to take part in the company's transformation.

To that effect, York will oversee manufacturing operations and execute a strategic agenda around high-quality production, distribution, and optimal performance for the global organization's flagship production campus in Oxford, North Carolina. With more than 2,000 employees under his leadership, York will play a critical role in shaping culture.

York was identified as the ideal candidate through a rigorous executive search process led by O'Neill Consulting Client Partner Oliver Poor.

Most recently, York served as vice president of brewery operations for MillerCoors, where he led brewery and distribution center operations. He previously served in leadership positions for top-tier food and beverage companies such as Kraft Foods, PepsiCo, and ConAgra Foods.

"Maurice brings the perfect mix of operational and cultural leadership skills to guide this iconic brand forward in the changing face of today's beauty industry," said Poor. "We're excited to see him deliver breakthrough performance for Revlon!"
